Kentucky's Coordinator has many links to state agencies including Title VCSHCN. The state has: long waiting lists of up to 1,500 for services; problems with health-related services at school; and that families find that home care, therapies, and other related health services are hard to get outside of institutions. While SCHIP allows coverage to 200% of poverty, families cannot afford insurance and don't qualify for Medicaid. Grass-roots advocacy groups work to get the word out about the needs of families, including systems that seem fragmented, are difficult to navigate, or remain under-funded. Our Coordinators met with many state agencies and conducted eight regional trainings for families on health related issues. The Family Voices Newsletter reaches 1,550 members. There is excitement about the possibility of a Kentucky Family to Family Health Information Center if the Family Opportunity Act passes.
